CLEARcommand

Lockdown Alarm System

CLEARcommand — Voice Alerting for Every Emergency. One System. Total Clarity.

In any emergency, the speed and clarity of communication shapes what happens next. A tone tells people something is wrong. A voice tells them what to do. That difference — between signal and instruction — is the foundation of CLEARcommand.

CLEARcommand is Hochiki's multi-purpose voice alerting system, designed to deliver clear, intelligible spoken messages to building occupants across a wide range of emergency and safety scenarios. From security lockdowns and evacuations to chemical warnings, perimeter alerts, smoke curtain activations, and general building safety announcements, CLEARcommand gives organisations a single, unified platform for voice-based emergency communication — whatever the incident, whoever the audience.

At the heart of the system is a dedicated control panel paired with a range of voice-enhanced sounders, providing a reliable and straightforward platform for managing emergency messaging across a site. A multi-message controller allows multiple pre-recorded voice instructions to be configured and selected, ensuring precisely the right message is delivered for each specific scenario. Lockdown call points, finished in a distinctive colour and protected by a cover, enable rapid single-action activation — so the right response can be initiated immediately, without hesitation or error under pressure.

One system. Every scenario.

CLEARcommand is built for the full breadth of emergency communication demands facing modern buildings and organisations. Security incidents require a different response to a chemical alarm. A smoke curtain activation calls for different instructions to an evacuation. CLEARcommand handles all of these — and more — through a single, consistent, easy-to-manage platform that building managers and security teams can rely on regardless of the nature of the incident.

A GSM mobile communicator ensures that key personnel receive instant alerts wherever they are, enabling a coordinated response from the very first moment. The sounder splitter module allows a single circuit to drive up to four sounders, extending coverage efficiently and keeping installation costs manageable across sites of any size.

Built for every building that needs to take safety seriously.

CLEARcommand is suited to schools, healthcare facilities, corporate offices, retail environments, transport hubs, public buildings, and anywhere that people need authoritative, real-time voice guidance in an emergency. Wherever clarity and speed of communication can make the difference, CLEARcommand is the system that delivers it.

Backed by Hochiki's long-standing reputation for quality and reliability, CLEARcommand brings professional-grade multi-purpose voice alerting to a new category in the Hochiki product portfolio.
